

Global Investor Week returns

The Borneo Post · 29 Mar 2019

KUCHING: When a person reaches 30, he often faces a mid-life crisis. When a company reaches 30, it usually brags about it.

To commemorate its 30 years of existence, Capital Dynamics organises a not-for-profit event – the two-day 2018/2019 Global Investor Week - which forms a key part of its social responsibility efforts.

“Malaysia has been going through trying times,” said Tan Teng Boo, founder and managing director of Capital Dynamics in a statement yesterday.

“Our current political climate is fragile; the ringgit is weak with turbulent global and local markets layered upon uncertain economic prospects.”

The 2018/2019 Global Investor Week is aimed at making Malaysians better informed and hence better equipped to deal with a world filled with unprecedented disruptions, be they positive or negative.

Held since 2010, the 2018/2019 Global Investor Week is Asia’s most innovative investment event and is held over two days: April 13 and 14.

Day 1 will see the veteran fund manager of Capital Dynamics share his honest assessment of Malaysia’s long-term economic prospects while Nurul Izzah will share her personal views of Malaysia’s long-term political future.

Participants can gain invaluable insights on where is Malaysia heading. Are the global and US economies heading for a recession? Is the worst over for the volatile stock markets of China and the US? Participants will be provided with the latest research insights of Capital Dynamics.

With low inflation, low interest rates and disruption of all kinds, how will value investing fit in such a new landscape? For the first time, Tan Teng Boo will share his insights on the “New Value Investing”, an important session for the value investing aficionado.
